EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

STEAMER OCEAN, LAKE ERIE, August 30, 1853.

We left Chicago at 9 o'clock last evening, and reached Detroit, after a pleasant trip, at 8 o'clock this morning. The cars were crowded to their utmost capacity. The travel is unusually large for this season of the year, and the boats on this Lake are crowded every day. There are also an unusual number of way passengers. There are two noticeable features among our fellow-passengers—the large number of intelligent men and women, and the large number of both sexes with black eyes. We don't mean to intimate that the former proposition is a corrollary from the latter. We merely state the facts.

The Ocean is a very comfortable boat. It is large, good and strong, and is well officered. Capt. Stannard is the oldest Captain on the Lakes, having been in the Lake service 30 years—27 years of this time as Captain. The Clerk, Chas. E. Noble, and the Steward, James Luff, for promptness, kindness, courtesy and attention to those under their care, cannot be excelled. The appointments of the boat are admirable, and its table is supplied with all the delicacies of the season. We shall always be satisfied with the care and fare we received on this boat.

In the evening, we had glee singing on the promenade deck, a very pleasant party from Janesville being of the number. The air was balmy and delightful, and the company seemed to enjoy it very much. There was, what would be called, rather a magnificent-appearing French lady, compagnon du voyage, who said we would be a good-looking man if we were shaved. We could do no less than reply that she looked excellently well, without shaving.

By the way, the Chicago Tribune stated yesterday, Aug. 29th, that the Southern Michigan Railroad refused to settle with the woman who was hurt by the accident on their Road, a week ago, last Monday, and had permitted her husband, a blind man, to sue the Company. So far from this being true, the Company took all possible care of the woman, paid her husband just what he asked, $500, and hold his receipt for it. It promises rain. To-morrow we hope to reach Gotham. S. M. B.

People's Convention.

The Mass Convention, to nominate a candidate for County Judge, met at the Court House, at the appointed time, yesterday afternoon, and adjourned till 7 o'clock in the evening—there not being more than half a dozen present.

In the evening some 40 or 50 persons collected at the Court House, and after considerable speechifying and some wrangling, PHILANDER KANE was nominated for County Judge.

Now, gentlemen, there are two candidates in the field, and vote for which you please, and we shall do the same. The News seems inclined to support Judge KANE, and considers him well qualified for the post.

We rejoice to see the News discard its old notions of stickling for regular nominations, whether they are good or bad, though we believe this is not the first time it has violated its former principles in that respect.

THE SULTANA.—James Abercrombie, in the Sentinel of this morning, praises up the Sultana and her officers, and says:

"I was taken 'all-a-back,' to use a 'nautical phrase,' to see in the 'Milwaukee Daily Democrat' of August 12th, a scurrilous article, signed 'H. L. E.,' but which I strongly suspect, emanated from the pen of S. M. Booth, Esq."

"H. L. E.," herself was the writer of that article, and Mr. Booth had nothing to do with it, farther than to publish it at her request.

When we get so low as to have our republicanism and patriotism raised by contrast with that of the Free Democrat, we'll leave the business.—Sentinel.

No one expects that the Sentinel will ever be other than what it is, under its present managers. Its editors being merely the tools of the Jenny Lind Club, and the Jesuits, can't be expected to "get so low" as to feel any sympathy with the working classes, the great republican party of the world. It prefers to be the organ of the aristocracy, and the apologist and friend of traitors to freedom and humanity.

☞ The Free Democrat—good soul—blessed individual—has taken the interests of Protestant Christendom under its peculiar charge just now.—Sentinel.

The Free Democrat has said nothing about "Protestant Christendom." If the Free Democrat's exposure of Bedini favors the "interests of Protestant Christendom," then the Sentinel's endorsement of Bedini's "mild administration" and "tender-heartedness," proves it either to be a sympathiser with the jesuitical despotisms of the old world, or to lack the moral courage necessary to speak its real sentiments!

The Sentinel seeks to make the controversy a religious one, while nothing was more remote from our intention. We intermeddle with no man's religious tenets, but treat all denominations—Catholics, Protestants or Jews—with equal respect; and whoever has read our paper for the past four or five years, will bear testimony to the truth of this assertion. We are not at all tinctured with narrow, bigoted sectarianism, and had a Protestant of a like character come here from a foreign country, and acted the part in the dedication of a Protestant Church that Bedini did in the consecration of the Cathedral, and been honored as he was by a portion of the community, he would have escaped with a no less severe excoriation at our hands than we administered to M. Bedini. We are not engaged in a crusade against any religious denomination—the Sentinel to the contrary notwithstanding; but we hold it our duty, as a public journalist, to oppose and repel the advances of despotism under whatever color or form it may appear; and so long as our mental faculties remain unimpaired, we shall never stultify ourself so much as to become the supple defender of tyrants and despots, whose hands are reeking with the blood of martyrs who have died in the cause of Humanity and Liberty, and whom they have victimized to gratify their own ambition for power.

RAILROAD ACCIDENTS.—The express train on the Southern Michigan road, coming west, was detained several hours on Wednesday night last, by running off the track. The locomotive of a freight train on the Michigan Central Railroad was thrown off the track near Terre Coupie on Tuesday night, by running over a cow, and the fireman was killed.

On Thursday morning the Express train on the Mich. Central road came in collision with a gravel train on the Illinois Central, near Chicago, throwing the latter off the track, and killing a German, named Philip Diech, on the emigrant train of the former. He was on his way, in company with his father, to visit his brother, who resides at Watertown, Wis. The train on the Mich. Central road was behind time, and had on board some 200 passengers. Several others were severely injured, and Mr. N. Wetherell, of Leeds, Canada, had his collar bone broken and his hand shockingly jammed.

A coroner's inquest was held over the body of Philip Diech, and a verdict rendered that he came to his death by a railroad collision, caused by the carelessness of John M. Hatch, the conductor on the Illinois Central Railroad.

BUFFALO DEMOCRACY.—At the recent Ward Caucusses in Buffalo, to nominate delegates to the district convention, the Administration party was entirely routed, carrying only two Wards out of fifteen. In the 9th Ward a Custom House official attacked the ballot box, which was broken to pieces, and a general fight took place.

CIRCUIT JUDGE.—The People's Convention at Delavan, on Wednesday last, to nominate a candidate for Judge of the First Judicial Circuit, nominated Mr. Spooner for that office, a man well qualified for the post, and if the people regard their own interest they will elect him.

ACQUITTED.—Mr. Comstock, the conductor on the train of cars that ran into the river at Norwalk, in May last, has been tried at Danbury, Conn., for manslaughter, and was acquitted on Monday last.

POTOSI.—The vote of this town on the 24th ult., on the question of its taking Stock in the Southern Wisconsin Railroad Co., resulted in the affirmative by 212 majority.—The whole vote was 392.

NAILS.—There is a gentleman in Chicago from Maryland, looking about to see what he can do about establishing a nail and spike manufactory in that city.

☞ The Erie Railroad Company have, since the 5th July, discharged fifteen hundred men.

COLLECTOR OF TROY.—Levi Smith, Esq., has been appointed to the office of Collector of the port of Troy, N. Y.

DROUTH.—A severe drouth has prevailed at Kingston and vicinity, Canada, for nearly two months past.

ASPINWALL COURIER.—We have received a copy of a small four column paper, by this name, published at the Isthmus.

OZAUKEE COUNTY JUDGE.—Hon. F. W. Horn is a candidate for Judge of Ozaukee county. Timber must be scarce up that way.

☞ The work of raising the steamer Atlantic seems to be attended with great difficulty, and progresses very slowly.

☞ The quarterly meeting of the Rock County Agricultural Society has been postponed to Saturday, the 10th inst.

Quondam Free Soilers.

Charles A. Eldredge is the Democratic candidate for Senator in Fond du Lac county. He is a Free Soiler of 1848; now a good Hunker, and an anti-Maine Law man, which latter fact renders his election very problematical.—Oshkosh Democrat.

Somehow or other the apostate Free Soilers of this State are reaping a rich reward for their treachery. The Hunkers seem quite willing to give them many of the fattest offices in the State. This, we suppose, is to keep them in their ranks, and, perhaps, to induce others out side of any "healthy organization," to emulate their example.

☞ The friends of the Maine Law, of Ceresco, without distinction of party, met in that village on the 27th ult., and passed the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the friends of the Maine Law, being in a very large majority in the Western Assembly District of Fond du Lac county, ought, as their true and only safe policy, take the initiative in this matter, make an early nomination with especial reference to this issue, and give the nominee a triumphant election.

And it was thereupon further

Resolved, That we invite the other five towns in this District to send seven delegates each to a Convention for this object, to be held at the School House in the village of Rosendale, on Saturday, the 17th day of September next, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

MR. LOVEJOY'S SPEECH.—The Fond du Lac Union publishes the mill and water speech of Rev. Mr. Lovejoy, against a prohibitory liquor law. It is to be expected that the editor of the Union will try to introduce some argument against the principles of a prohibitory liquor law, inasmuch as he has pledged himself to use his influence against the passage of such a law, should he be elected to the Assembly.

☞ James McM. Shafter, Esq., is an independent candidate for Judge of Sheboygan county. He will quite probably be elected, as the democrats have resolved to make no nomination for that office. Mr. S. is a man of fair abilities, is something of a progressive, and we should think would make a very good Judge.

☞ A son of Mr. Ryan, aged 15, at Elizabethtown, Ky., was shockingly mangled recently by four bloodhounds, which were kept for hunting fugitive slaves. The boy's left arm was nearly gnawed to pieces, and the flesh was torn from his right leg in several places, so as to expose the bone.

BARNUM.—The Kenosha Telegraph says: "Barnum will be here, probably as soon as Wednesday next, to commence his labors in this State, in behalf of Temperance."

Loss of the Steamer Quito.

The Quito was sailing on the night of the 10th inst., 12 miles from Huasco, when she struck unexpectedly on a rock, and the shock drove her 100 yards further, striking from one rock to another with such force as to open her bottom immediately. The letter bags and specie were then discharged with regularity. Of the first all were saved, but of the bars of silver shipped at Copiapo 16 were missing, only 24 bars of silver and one of gold being saved.

The following day the accident was known at Huasco, and the authorities and the English Consul went to the place, and the shipwrecked were conducted to the town, whence the Firefly brought them to Coquimbo.—The Captain of the Quito wrote to the Agency that only Don Cruz Tobar was drowned, who had brought with him about 200 doubloons.

Perhaps, said Mr. Hale, you expected I was going to make a speech, but I am simply going to tell a story of a fugitive—and one, too, which you may have all heard. [Mr. Hale then proceeded to recount, in a graphic and most interesting manner, the particulars of the arrest of Kozsta, the Hungarian refugee, by an Austrian commissioner, and his deliverance thro' the exertions of a noble and truly American officer, Capt. Ingraham.] What American was there, said Mr. Hale, whose heart did not beat a little quicker when he read that story? What sick man was there, even, who, when the doctor felt his pulse that day, he did not say, "Your fever runs a little higher to-day, my friend?" [Laughter and cheers.] Capt. Ingraham, when he performed that manly act, touched a cord that found a response in every American heart. Even that dreadful class, the Old Hunkers, felt it—they could not help it. It was a noble, a generous, a magnanimous act, and the whole heart of the nation vibrated with new thrills of pleasure and exultation, at the recital of the story.

Why did they do so? That was a flagrant violation of the fugitive slave law. In the words of that law, Kozsta "owed service" to the emperor of Austria. He had escaped, and the myrmidons of the emperor had retaken him. We interfered. We, that are so fond of enforcing the fugitive slave law at home, would not see it enforced abroad, and the American stars and stripes protected the poor exile at Smyrna, whatever they may do at home. There was a great moral in this, and it was a great index, too. It told him where the heart of this people is.

BRICK.—We have been shown a specimen of cream-colored brick, manufactured by Mr. Bruce, near the village of Oak Grove, which resemble very much the far-famed Milwaukee Brick, and we think are fully equal to them both in hardness and in the beauty of their color.—Dodge Co. Gazette.

Among the arrivals in town, last week, we notice that of our old townsman, Mr. Henry L. Massey, from California. He has been absent about a year and a half.—Potosi Republican.

WILD FRUIT.—There is an abundance of wild fruit in our market—black-berries, plums, &c.—Of the former, we should judge that 200 bushels had been sold in our streets—ripe, delicious, black as our boots.—Fond du Lac Union.

☞ In San Francisco, is is said, there is a grog shop to every hundred inhabitants.

☞ The Panorama of the "Pilgrims Progress" is being exhibited in Chicago.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.—A Teachers' Institute is now being held in Fond du Lac.

FIRE.—On Thursday night last three stables were consumed by fire at Chicago.

GREENFIELD, Milwaukee Co., August, 1853.

MR. EDITOR: "It is instructive to remark" what feeling is manifested with regard to the adoption in this State of the Prohibitory Liquor Law. We read of meetings in opposition to the contemplated law in various portions of the State. Of course, people have a right to give vent to their feelings and express their sentiments upon matters of public policy, and we shall concede to all the right to act according to their honest convictions.

But, at the same time, others have the right to enquire into and investigate this subject, to see what bearing it has upon the productive industry of the State. The liquor dealers, we find, are up and doing, passing resolves, forming associations, and levying contributions, in order to defeat the law. If the dealers and traffickers in liquors will but act on the principle of the "greatest good to the greatest number," they will find that their position is in direct conflict with this fundamental principle.

All reformatory measures, from the existing nature of things, are calculated to act more directly to the benefit of the producing class of community than others, and all measures of reform should be approached cautiously, especially by such as live upon the labor of others. We are satisfied that full one third of the taxes we pay annually have their origin in the use of intoxicating drink; and yet, in the face of this truth, we find a class of people, even some of the public presses, striving to perpetuate upon us this onerous tax.

I appeal to the hard-fisted yeomanry of the country,—you who develop the wealth of the State, and upon whom every burden must inevitably rest, to reflect, consider and improve the present opportunity of ridding yourselves of this monster iniquity. Heed not the expostulations and entreaties of liquor-dealers, office-seekers, demagogues and politicians;—for us they care not a straw, aside from our votes. Let us show all such that there is a redeeming spirit abroad among the toiling masses, which will be brought to bear upon this question, and that we are determined no longer to neglect our highest and best interests.

I, for one, have never acted with any organized temperance society, nor ever signed the pledge; but in view of the vast benefit resulting from the adoption of a Prohibitory Liquor Law, my vote and influence shall be cast in favor of the measure.

J. C. CROUNSE.

Milwaukee by a Stranger.

ALANSON HOLLEY, Esq., editor of the Wyoming Co. (N. Y.) Mirror, has been traveling in this State. He speaks highly of Milwaukee and its future prospects. We make some extracts:

"Milwaukee is the largest city in Wisconsin, and I like it better than any large place I have seen in my route. It is beautifully located at the western curve of Milwaukee Bay and at the mouth of Milwaukee River. The bay is about ten miles across at its mouth, from north to south, and sets inland perhaps three miles. The river, for some distance near its mouth, runs south, nearly parallel with the lake shore, and about half a mile from it. Between the lake and river the land is high, and on this high land is a large share of the residences of the city. Most of the business, however, is on lower land, near the river. West of the river the land is high, and already contains many costly buildings. There has been some marsh along the river, but it is now nearly all filled, and the streets in that part of the city are as dry and clean as those in other parts. In fact, it is the neatest looking city, comparatively, taking into consideration the great amount of building going on, that I have seen on my present tour. The buildings are mostly of brick, of cream color, which gives the city, when seen from the neighboring highland, a peculiarly lively and pleasing appearance. At first sight I did not like Milwaukee brick, because they appeared as if the first shower would dissolve them. But on learning that they were very hard and durable, I have come to the conclusion that I have never seen brick which make better looking buildings. The highest grounds in and about the city are nearly a hundred feet above the surface of the lake. These high grounds are broken by the valley of the Milwaukee River, and that of the Menomonee River, which enters the Milwaukee near its entrance into the lake. On these high lands the residences mostly stand, and the city will doubtless expand over the hills far beyond its present limits.

"Next to Chicago, I think this city best situated for growth of any in the West. It already contains 27,000 inhabitants, and is fast increasing. It has about half a dozen Railroads built or in process of construction, and about as many more chartered or in serious consideration. With such a group of Railroads terminating here, and spreading all over Wisconsin, and drawing trade and travel from Iowa and Minnesota, Milwaukee must be a good point. Then its high and healthful location, its enterprising inhabitants its public improvements, and its beautiful public and private buildings already completed, all tend powerfully to draw capital, and families who want a good city home. There is no city of my acquaintance where so many fine, sightly, pleasant locations may be had for private residences. On the whole, I think Milwaukee must be a large and very pleasant city."

JO IN TAYLOR ENDORSED.—The democratic convention of Fond du Lac Co., held on the 27th ult., at Fond du Lac, to nominate county officers and elect delegates to the State Convention, after concluding their business, passed a resolution instructing their delegates to present John Taylor favorably to the Democratic State Convention. It don't specify for what purpose he is to be presented, but perhaps it is that the convention may have the privilege of gazing upon a notorious political truckler.

☞ A meeting of those in favor of erecting a monument to the memory of Knud Iverson, the little Norwegian boy, who was drowned by a couple of wicked boys, at Chicago, a few days since, because he would not steal, was to have been held in that city last evening.

Further by the Europa.

London, Aug. 20.

The Emperor and Empress have relinquished their intended journey to Diette at least for the present. A rumored complication in the eastern question, is assigned as the cause.

The revenue during the first half year of 1853, is 1,366.449 florins more than in the first six months of 1852.

It is rumored at Vienna, that, should the Russians make inroads into Servia, the Austrians will occupy the fortress of Belgrade. Austria will not consent to Russian's taking possession of the key to the Selavonian and Hungarian provinces.

The Porte will not send off an Embassy until order is sent to withdraw the Russian troops. The Czar will not send that order until the Porte has signed an arrangement which is tantamount to a concession of the dispute, and having got so far as to be allowed to send an Ambassy to St. Petersburgh, there will then be two questions of indemnification of expenses and the expulsion of all political refugees.

Advices are received from Constantinople to the 2th inst. It is said, that at an interview with Reschid, the Persian ambassadors have given promise of support, in case of need.

Measures are taken to collect an army of 62,000 men at Sultani, to be placed at the Sultan's disposal. The government has ordered the Greek bishops and archbishops, at the Capital, to return to their Sees immediately.

It has been ascertained that Greek and Russian agents are at work to foment discord.

Recent advices from the Belgrade district, mention that the population of Servia were arming, and that 30,000 militia were already armed. Letters from Malta, state that a courier had arrived at Constantinople with news that 20,000 Austrians would occupy Servia, as a check upon any revolution that might arise out of the occupation of the principalities by Russia. The Prince of Servia says he will resist with 5,000 men. The last accounts from Constantinople says public opinion favors the resistance.

Washington, Aug. 29.

Col. Benton is indulging an unamiable spirit towards the Administration. A gentleman asked if he often visited the White House. He replied with Bentonian emphasis:

The Secretary of the interior sent a message to him to inform him there was a Register of the Land Office to be appointed in the St. Louis congressional district, and requested him to furnish the Department with the name of a person to fill the vacant office. Old Ingot said, "I have no name to present, and were I to live to be as old as Methusaleh, and this administration, should exist so long, I would have no favor to take of it."

The messenger than said, "Colonel, I will inform the Secretary that you have no name to offer."

"No, Sir," said the venerable, but now indignant Bullionist, "carry my answer, sir, in my own precise language sir."

Baltimore, Aug. 30.

Mexico dates to the 9th instant have been received. An order had been published directing the pursuit and punishment of deserters from the Army. The establishment of a National Bank has been reported unfavorably upon. The black vomit was prevailing at Acapulco—many deaths had occurred. General Villada died of the disease.

Dates from Texas are to the 19th inst.—Rio Grande Valley had thrown nearly its whole vote for Pease for Governor and Dickinson for Lieut. Governor.

Quarantine has been established at Pensacola, and New Orleans packets have consequently discontinued their trips.

Philadelphia, Sept. 2.

The House of Bishops reassembled at Camden this morning—The President requested those who were not members to retire, when Bishop Doane made an eloquent appeal to the House to open the doors to the public and offered a resolution to that effect. The matter is under discussion.

Savannah, Aug. 30th.

The Savannah and Gulf Railroad Co. have been re-organized.

At a public meeting, a subscription of $1,000,000 for the company, was authorized, for the construction of an air-line route to Mobile, with a branch to Florida. Seven agents have been appointed to proceed to raise the funds.

Niles, Aug. 31.

The freight train ran off the track at Terre Coupe last night. The accident was caused by running over an ox. Goodrich, the firemen, was killed, and the engineer slightly hurt. The locomotive and tender were badly broken. The freight cars are piled mountains high.

New York, August 30.

Later dates from New Mexico bring the intelligence that some excitement existed there in consequence of the apparent determination of the Mexican Government to take and hold military possession of the Mesilla Valley.

Baltimore, Sept. 2.

The whig state convention has nominated Richard J. Bowie of Montgomery for Governor, and Dr. J. Hanson of Baltimore for Controller.

Common Council.

At a Special Meeting of the Common Council yesterday afternoon, the papers of the M. & F. Railroad Company, consisting of the bond and mortgage for $400,000, secured upon 40 miles of the road, and a collateral bond of $100,000 as required, were read. The conditions prescribed in the report of the select committee being complied with, a resolution was passed completing the arrangement, and definitely authorizing the issue of bonds.

RECEIPTS.—The total receipts of the M. & M. railroad, for the month of August just expired, were $18,254,71. The receipts of the corresponding month of last year, were $5,618,22. The earnings of the road for July last were $16,154,85.

☞ The Journeymen Tailors are still on a strike. A large band of them were marching about the streets yesterday afternoon preceded by flying banners and music.—Their employers are ready to increase their wages from 25 to 30 per cent for certain kinds of work, but are not willing to fully comply with their demand.

BARRELS.—F. Winton, Esq., purchased for Mr. Harrison of F. Madder, residing a few miles out of the city, 165 barrels, at 35 cents each. They were all brought in at one load, and are to be shipped to Chicago.

THIEVES.—A quantity of washed clothes were stolen from the back part of the house of John Ogden, Esq., on Thursday night last.

Police Court.

Maria Doman of the 5th Ward was fined $10 and costs, yesterday afternoon, for an assault and battery on Frederika Dufenhoest.

STEALING A WATCH.—Officer Wedemeyer arrested, last evening, a German girl for stealing a watch valued at $10. The property was found on her person and she was lodged in jail. She had been in this country but two weeks.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.—Lot 9, block 107, on Astor-st., First Ward has been sold by Caleb Wall for $1,500.

MILWAUKEE BRICK in New York.—The Sentinel learns that the Trustees of the New York Deaf and Dumb Asylum contemplate the rebuilding of their edifice of Milwaukee brick. They will need 700,000 or 800,000.

FOUND.—The little boy of Mr. King, that was missing on Wednesday last, was found on the evening of the same day, on the south line of the Railroad, near the woods.

SETTLEMENT.—We are glad to learn by last evening's Wisconsin that Messrs. Cramer and Hurley have settled their difficulty amicably. They have dissolved partnership by mutual consent. Mr. Hurley, we understand, intends to again connect himself with the press, somewhere, in a short time.

REAL ESTATE.—Durand & Lawrence, and N. Pereles have purchased 70 acres of land opposite the Cold Spring, beyond the Western limits of the city for $3,050.

POWER'S Map of Wisconsin.—While in Milwaukee, we called at the office of D. G. Power, to see his celebrated Map of Wisconsin. It is probably near ten feet square, and shows accurately the counties, towns, villages, lakes, streams, prairies, openings, &c., of the State, and gives a vast amount of other geographical information. This great map was executed by Mr. Power entirely with a pen, and must have cost him an immense amount of labor. Any person wishing to get an accurate idea of Wisconsin will do well to examine this map before traveling over the State.—Wyoming (N. Y.) Mir.

Gerrit Smith has given $1,000 to the Howard Association of New Orleans, for the relief of the sufferers. Mr. Smith is a large-hearted man, who is no sectionalist in his benevolence. The Southerners can learn a wise lesson from this widely known abolitionist.—Wisconsin.

Father Gavazzi publishes in the Italian newspaper in New York city, a most powerful statement and exposition of the part performed by the Pope's Nuncio, Bedini, in the execution and death of the Italian patriot, Ugo Bassi. Gavazzi himself is a native of Bologna, the city in which the tragedy took place.—Wisconsin.

VERMONT CENTRAL RAILROAD.—The total cost of this road, to July 1, 1853, is $8,072,281,05.—The Vermont and Canada, which is leased to the Central, at 8 per cent. interest, cost to the same date $1,500,000. The receipts of both roads, for the year, were $682,437,67, and the expenditures $429,865.42, leaving net earnings $252,573,25. But the rent of the Vermont and Canada road, and interest on bonds being $313,-634,50, a deficiency is met with for the year, of $61,061,25. The assets of the corporation are ascertained to be, by estimate, $632,970,37, and the liabilities $476,169,64. The increase of earnings during the past year has been 33 per cent. over the previous year.

The first railroad in New York, (the Mohawk and Hudson, between Albany and Schenectady) was commenced August 19, 1830, twenty-three years ago, and opened August 13, 1831.

The entire line of the Indiana and Illinois Railroad from Indianapolis to Decatur is under contract—to be finished by December 1, 1855, at $22,000 per mile, except ballasting, by Messrs. M. C. Story & Co., New York.

The "Mass Meeting" Yesterday.

SATURDAY MORNING, September 3, 1853.

FRIEND BOOTH:—

The great mass meeting called for in the Sentinel of yesterday, to nominate a People's candidate for County Judge, came off at 3 o'clock P. M., yesterday, at the Court House. The meeting consisted of about half-a-dozen disappointed candidates and their friends, and about as many more lookers on. The bell rang in vain—the people had nominated their candidate at the regular meeting and were satisfied. The discontented few were unable to get up any excitement, the meeting was not called to order, a few persons dropped off in one direction, a few in another, until none were left except the reporter. It was the most diminutive fizzle that I ever beheld. The disappointed few determined on another struggle and got out hand-bills for an adjourned meeting at 7 o'clock in the evening, they drumming up in the interval. But 7 o'clock came with no better result. The Court House was lighted. S. E. Foote rang the bell with desperation, still the people heeded them not. Some proposed to ring a fire alarm as that generally brings a crowd. However, at 8 o'clock S. E. Foote, on motion, took the chair, and stated the object of the meeting, whereon Mr. McGarry, after waiting considerable time, moved that Charles E. Jenkins be nominated the candidate of the people, and in a brief and very eloquent address supported his views. He remarked that the very absence of the people, after all the efforts that had been made, showed conclusively that the people were satisfied with the regular Democratic nomination, and that as sure as the sun went down in the horizon on the fifth day of September, that Charles E. Jenkins would be county Judge by the almost unanimous vote of the people.

The question was then put and carried by fully a two-third vote, and contrary to all decency and propriety, the Chair, S. E. Foote, decided that the minority carried. A division was immediately called for, but the chair would not call it. During the noise some one nominated Mr. Kane for County Judge. The Chair put it to vote and it was lost by two-thirds against it. In the very teeth of the meeting Foote declared him nominated, and the meeting then adjourned.

A very respectable looking old gentlemen from Vermont, and a stranger in our city, was present, and remarked to a few persons who were near, that he had strolled in out of curiosity to see how meetings were conducted in the West. He said he had read considerable about the western mode of carrying on elections, but he had concluded it was merely burlesque, and that now as he had seen for himself he would go home satisfied from the conduct of the Chair that the West was not the place for him.

Yours Truly, W. B.

☞ It is due to ourselves to say, that we saw for the first time, within the last twenty-four hours, the address from the committee, on temperance, to which our name is affixed, and have not yet had time to read it carefully. The recommendation to voters to stick to old parties, we very emphatically repudiate; and the well known fact that we have been laboring for some time, in the opposite direction, should have secured our name against any such use. And so far as this particular issue is concerned, we do not know what there is so important about the old party questions, in our legislature, that a peculiarly temperance, Maine Law committee should recommend voters to stick to them.—Kenosha Telegraph.

GRANT CO. PAUPER FARM.—This necessary evil is now under the care of Mr. Jas. Jones. He has the farm by lease for three years from the 1st of April last, for which he is to pay the county a rent of $100 per annum. He is bound to keep, clothe, and furnish medical aid for all county paupers, for which the county is to pay him $2 a head per week.—Grant Co. Herald.

Mr. Burton Drake's house, at Millville, took fire on the 22d ult., but was saved from entire loss by the utmost labor and management of the few who happened to be present. Damaged about $100. Wisconsin River is falling.—Ib.

THE HARVEST SECURED.—A large harvest is now safely stored in the barn and stack. The weather has been favorable throughout, and very little loss has been suffered from rain and damp weather. It is probable that most all the crop of this season will be needed for home use, and that there will not be much surplus left after all. Emigration, increase of mining labor, and laborers on Railroads, will provide a heavy draw on farmers' products this year.—Ib.

ORANGE WATERMELON.—Mr. Peabody, editor of the Soil of the South, mentions a new kind of watermelon, which he calls the orange watermelon, and pronounces it a very singular, beautiful and excellent melon. By cutting into the rind, as you peel an orange, the entire skin peels off, leaving the whole pulp unbroken, which, with care, may be divided into quarters, just as you divide an orange.

A WELL TO DO PAUPER.—A German was taken to the poor house a few days since at his own request and the solicitation of his friends, when upon arriving there 81 five franc pieces were found upon his person.—Chicago Jour.

Marine.—NEW PROPELLER.—The propeller Westmoreland, built at Cleveland, has arrived from that city on her first trip to Buffalo. She is 666 tons burthen; 200 ft. keel; breadth of beam 32 feet; depth of hold 12½ ft. She is commanded by Captain John Ball of Ohio City, by whom, in connection with A. B. Ellis, of Buffalo, she is owned. She is beautifully fitted up for passengers, and cost $36,000.—Buffalo Republic.

CHAPTER IV.

MARRIAGE—THE BABY—WILLY—MR. AND MRS. AMY.

The sun never rose on a more lovely day than on the one which witnessed the bridal of Ella Hardman and Nora Beal to their respective lovers. Arches of evergreens, festooned in a fanciful manner, hung from tree to tree, on the tufted lawn, in the rear of Mr. Beal's mansion, and a retinue of invited guests assembled to witness the ceremony. The minister blessed the youthful pairs, bidding them be "faithfulun to death" The response was readily given, for they were married in spirit, and needed but the outward ceremony as the type of "the higher law" written in their hearts. When the ceremony was finished, a choral band of girls, dressed in white, sang:

"O, take them, and be faithful still,
And may the bridal vow
Be sacred held in after years,
And warmly breathed as now.
Remember, 'tis no idle tie
That binds the youthful heart;
But, oh, it is a lasting one,
That only death should part."

Amid all the festivities, mirth and joy, there was a sadness that could not be concealed or restrained, for they were to lose Nora. The young girls would miss her at their sports; the poor would miss her gentle footsteps, her visits of mercy, and her spontaneous benefactions, for she had her father's spirit of charity, and many were the kind words she spoke to them—many were the sick pillows which her hand had softened.

But all were delighted that she had married such a talented young man, and no one doubted but that joy and happiness would certainly be her lot.

"Indade," said her old nurse, with a sobbing voice; "I can't bear to give yer up—to have yer go from the sight of these old eyes, that yer have been the sunlight and the joy of for so many years. But yer young heart will be blessed; for never a mother had a better son than Charles Wentworth, and a good son always makes a kind husband. God bless yer, my darlint; and may yer niver hear an unkind word to fall upon yer angel heart."

When the parting hour came there was a general wailing of sorrow from many hearts.

A bridal is always a sad scene. A young girl, unused to coldness or severity, in word, deed or look, loving and beloved by her fond parents, brothers and sisters, leaves her father's fire-side. The one who weds her may be attracted by her beauty of person, of mind, and moral worth, and gathers her from the parterre as one of the richest, most fragrant flowers. But when once the idolatrous lover has possession of this rare gift, he little thinks of the care it requires to keep it fresh and blooming, and to prevent its premature decay and early blight. Think of the care the gardener takes of the little twig he transplants, and then compare it with the neglect with which he treats the plant of flesh and blood, and you need not wonder to see the fading forms, pallid countenances, and lustreless eyes which meet us at every hand. The man who will make every sacrifice to gain possession of his cherished idol, will often, afterward, make a god of his business or profession; will distract his brain during an absence of the whole day, and return at night wearied, dispirited, morose and sullen. If, then, the gentle creature, yearning for sympathy, burned up with the love rankling in her bosom for want of reciprocity—whose many gushings of a loving soul are repulsed by one who swore by the stars above that she was his life, his love, his every joy in existence—should droop, and wither, bitter reproaches meet her ear and waste her life's energies away. And, when no longer the physical frame will support this internal agony—when no longer her spirit can be fettered by the clay—and she lays down her head and dies, a living, burning flame will ever remain in the bosom of the being who wakes up to the reality when it is too late, who has dealt a blow he cannot recall, who has plunged the dagger into the soul and made a mortal wound that no earthly styptic will heal. When the last pressure of the hand, the last imprinted kiss, and the last word has been spoken, the husband then feels that biting agony, the self-condemnation of a murderer; the very elements are hung with sackcloth and no peace remains for such an one. No penance, however severe, will restore the lost one. No earthly power will breathe into that dust a living soul. The earth is deep with woman's dust, calling upon the survivors to revenge her untimely death. This need not be—ought not to be—but it makes one's heart ache to look upon the marriages consummated every day.—Many a parent is anxious to marry his daughters only for a position, for wealth, fame, or some adventitious good, that, perhaps, may be stripped or torn away by the first rude blast. What a mistaken kindness is it for a parent to choose, without reference to the organization or tastes of his children, a partner who is to be intimately connected with every thought, pulsation and feeling of her existence. They hurry their daughters, with immature judgments, undeveloped intellects and bodies, into an alliance with some one they would be proud to call their son. As years pass, the girl or child, wife develops, unfolds. She has within her the germ of all that is high and noble—her standard of love changes, and she finds that she is tied with a Gordian knot to a selfish, contracted being, whom she cannot love or respect. O, to think of spending weeks and months with one whom you cannot respect and love! To think that this is the object held forth to girls blossoming into womanhood! O, Parents! do not needlessly plant thorns in the pillows of your children! Teach them to develop their mental faculties, so that they need not consider marriage the desideratum of life, and sacrifice every thing to attain it—so that they can be useful without entering into this state, and this training will prepare them the better to fill the marriage relations, when they do intelligently form them.

Nora was the most pained to part from her parents, and Ella, who was now a sister in name as before she had been in reality. The two brides promised to correspond faithfully, to relate every change of their hearts or surroundings, and to visit each other once a year.

Could they have looked forward to the reading of the veil which obscures futurity, could they have seen all the varied scenes in their web of life, they would, perhaps, have shrunk from the game.

It is a blessed thing that we do not know the dark lines of joy and sadness which will cross our pathway—that we can not always trace the varied hues of our future career. Nora's heart was sad to leave her childhood's happy home. She had always been a love-child, the pet of her father's household, and now she was to emerge from the chrysalis. Now she was to assume new relations, mingle in a different society, form new acquaintances, and, as it were, begin life anew. She thought that she could never love another spot like the paradise she was to leave. When she visited, for the last time, her favorite bower where she had spent so many happy hours, reading her favorite authors, she involuntarily exclaimed, as Eve when she left the bower of Eden:

"Must I thus leave thee, paradise? thus leave
Thee, native soil, these happy walks and shades,
Fit haunt of gods? where I had hoped to spend,
Quiet though sad, the respite of that day
That must prove mortal to us both. O, Flowers,
* * * which I reared up with tender hand
From the first opening bud, and gave ye names,
Who now shall rear ye to the sun, or rank
Your tribes, and water from the cool clear fount?

Her father's residence was three miles from the busy town, so that they could enjoy city and country life if they wished; but she had often said, when she died she preferred the sweet country air. Like Fanny Forester she would say: "O, let me die in the country, where I shall not fall like the single leaf of the forest, unheeded. Where those that love me need not mar their hearts to meet the careless multitude, and strive, as a duty, to forget me. Bury me in the country, amid the prayers of the good and the tears of the loving; not in the dark, damp vault, away from the sweet-scented air, and the cheerful sunshine, but in the open fields among the flowers that I loved and cherished while living."

The city of New York, where was to be Nora's home, had no particular attractions for her, save the one absorbing thought that she would constantly be with her betrothed. She had loved her school-mates with endearing fondness; her sister seemed her second self; but when she gave her heart and hand, it was with an idolatrous affection that death only could quench.—She felt that she could, with Charles, tread any path in life, of grief or joy.

They took an elegant mansion in a fashionable street in New York, and they furnished it in a befitting style. Nora had her piano, guitar, favorite flowers, her library of books, and almost every comfort and convenience that money could purchase.

Outwardly, no couple ever had better prospects for a life of enjoyment and happiness.—Charles had as much business as he could desire, and friends in abundance surrounded them.

When Nora first moved to the city, she felt how lonely it is to be a stranger amid a dense crowd, to walk miles in the crowded streets and feel all alone—all alone with no eye of recognition or friendly smile from those she met. But she soon had a coterie of persons around her, who made professions of friendship, and she was comparatively happy.

Time sped with rapid flight, and Nora had assumed new relations. God had stamped upon brow a new seal, as we can gather from a letter, part of which we will transcribe for our readers:

"MY DEAR ELLA:

Charles is as kind as ever, he studies every desire of my heart, and I have no wish bounding into my soul, but he imagines it from my tell-tale face, as he terms it, and gratifies it. * * * * I must hasten to apprize you of the health and comfort of the dear little bird that has flown into my nest. Such sparkling eyes, so intensely blue, looking so lovingly into mine—velvet fingers—a little sylph-like form, seemingly too angelic for earth—chubby arms, and fat neck, you could not help kissing it. Waking, I gaze at the little creature, till my soul is lost in rapture and delight; sleeping, I dream of those tiny arms nestling around my neck. I well realize the truth of Mrs. Heman's lines—

"There is none in all this hollow world, no fount
Of deep, strong, deathless love save that within a mother's heart."

May God give me strength to train my dear little Willie to join that angel band of pure white spirits encircling His throne. * * *

Tell father, that in a few weeks, the doctor, says, I may take a journey, and then we will compare babies. Only remember in making the comparison that yours is a month older. You would be amused to see Charles caress it. He is so fearful, if the little thing opens its mouth to cry, that it will not survive the struggle, that I quite laugh at him. But farewell.

Your ever true sister,
NORA."

Among their most intimate friends were Mr. and Mrs. Amy. He had married the Miss Candings mentioned in our first chapter. Nora did not love them, for they were not congenial companions, but she yielded to the persuasions of Charles, who said they were influential in society, and they must sacrifice some of their prejudices to business.

"But Charles, I believe friendship should be more than a name and love a pure undying flame, and it seems so heartless to make hundreds of calls on those for whom we have not a spark of sympathy beyond external influences, to gossip and slander, to talk of idle nothings. I must frankly tell you that I much prefer to stay at home and read, or play on the piano, and if I visit them, it will be only to please you."

She did not tell him, that she feared the influences of Mr. Amy over him; but she silently submitted to custom's iron rod, which cramps the soul as effectually as bands, and prevents God's sun-light and dew-drops from shining upon and moistening it, thus retarding its growth and development. Persons thus stifle their better nature, and anon, habit becomes so strengthened that they yield willingly to her imperious demand. No longer, the higher, nobler nature struggles for development. It is like the acorn buried beneath a rock—its luxurious foliage is dwarfed. How often did Nora feel the cramping influences of the conventionalities of the circle in which she was doomed to move. She was a spontaneous child of nature, but her life was not the result of her heart's emotions. She often sighed for a quiet spot, away from the whirl and dissipation of city life.

As hinted, her father was a moderate drinker of wine. He always had several varieties of the best quality in his cellar, and thought it a breach of hospitality not to treat his guests. It flowed freely at the bridal of his son and daughter, but he never overstepped the bounds of propriety, in its use, for he had too much self-control. Though we have spoken of his urbanity of manner, his genuine benevolence, yet in this one respect his influence was far from being beneficial. For many persons seeing him use wine, and not discriminating between the difference in organization or temperament, and not guided as much by reason, would lose their balance of mind and would drink to intoxication. But Mr. Beal had not reflected on the evil in the light of conscience, and therefore he still pursued the even tenor of his way.

His daughter scarcely ever drank wine, for she did not like it, but Charles had become convinced that, if he rose to eminence in his profession, he must partake of it, and give it freely to his friends. So they always had it in their house, and he was universally hailed as a "good fellow," in all circles of society. At first, it was like parlor furniture, kept in reserve for guests; gradually, as twilight deepens into day, he felt that he needed a glass after dinner to help his food digest. Afterward, by 10 o'clock in the morning, he would have such a sense of "goneness," that he could not possibly get along without it, so that it was getting to be somewhat of a constant companion. But his first bitter experience was so vivid in his memory, that he was careful not to get beyond prudence. Yet the poison was nevertheless rankling in his veins. Mr. Amy was always on hand to sanction every suggestion that his weak nature made.

TO MILWAUKEE BUSINESS MEN AND ADVERTISERS.

THE "OSHKOSH DEMOCRAT" proves to business men a better medium of advertising, than any other country paper in the State. The weekly edition is 1000 41 quires—larger than that of any other in the State and twice as large as more than half the others. It is sent regularly to every village and post office on the East and West rivers, and Lake Winnebago, from Green Bay to Fort Winnebago, and from Fond du Lac to Lake Shawne, and Stephens' Point on the Wisconsin, and circulates extensively in Fond du Lac, Dodge, Columbia, Marquette, Portage, Waushara, Winnebago, Outagamie, Brown and Calumet counties, and is extensively quoted in its own (Winnebago) county.

☞ What is said here of its circulation and comparative merits, as an advertising medium, is susceptible of positive demonstration to any one that desires it.
